

Linux file system structure

→	bin	stores system binaries
→	boot	stores boot files
→	dev	stores device files
→	etc	system's core configuration files
→	home	stores user personal data
→	lib	libraries and kernel modules
→	lost+found	recover damaged or lost files.
→	media	mount point for removable media
→	mnt	mount directory for devices and filesystem
→	opt	store optional softwares
→	proc	stores processes and kernel parameters
→	root	root user's home directory
→	run	stores system runtime data
→	sbin	stores super user binaries
→	srv	stores service data
→	tmp	stores temporary files
→	usr	stores user binaries and program data
→	var	stores variable data files (i.e log files)